Stag Hunt in Velebit

Hunting Area:

The Velebit is a mountain range in the coastal region of Croatia. The mountain area includes two national parks. The Velebit forms a climate barrier between the Mediterranean climate and the mountainous climate of the interior. With a length of 145 km, the Velebit is the longest massif of the Dinaric Alps. The width of the Velebit ranges from 10 to 30 km. The Velebit is predominantly densely forested on the east side facing the mainland. On the coastal side, the vegetation is mostly sparse. Along with bears, wolves, and chamois, red deer can also be found in this mountain range. These are typical mountain stags with long antlers that appear more impressive than they actually weigh. The antlers weigh around 6 kg, and the stags achieve an average of 160 to 180 CIC points.

Accommodation / Meals: Accommodation is in a cozy guesthouse located within the hunting area. The food is Mediterranean and excellent!

Hunting Season: August 16th - January 15th / Best time: September 20th – October 5th

Participants: 1 – 4 hunters

Travel: Travel by car
