The other way to hunt...

Roe Deer Hunt in Croatia

Offer Nr.: 2523

Hunting Area: The areas selected for roe deer hunting are located in the Velebit. The Velebit forms a climate barrier between the Mediterranean climate and the mountain climate in the interior. With a length of 145 km, the Velebit is the longest massif of the Dinaric Alps. The width of the Velebit ranges from 10 to 30 km. The Velebit is predominantly densely forested on the east side facing the mainland. On the coastal side, the vegetation is mostly sparse. Alongside bears, wolves, and chamois, roe deer and red deer are also found in this mountain range and its foothills. The antler weights of mature bucks range between 400 and 500 grams, sometimes even more. Besides the well-known stand hunting, a lot of stalking is done during the roe deer hunt. The hunting guides are very dedicated and knowledgeable. Hunters are accommodated in a local guesthouse.
