Roe Buck & Boar in the Splendor of Szeklerland

Roe Buck & Boar in Szeklerland

The municipality of Lemnia is located north of the Brasov Depression in the southern foothills of the Nemira Mountains, a subrange of the Eastern Carpathians, in the so-called Szeklerland, in the northern part of Covasna County. Around this municipality extend three hunting areas with a total of more than 40,000 hectares. An untouched, natural area of the Eastern Carpathians with an ideal habitat for red deer, roe deer, wild boar, as well as bears and wolves. Hunting roe bucks is an exciting stalking hunt, with bucks taken from a stalking stick or while lying down; there are no high seats. There is very little hunting pressure. Only 35 bucks are harvested on 10,000 hectares – practically no intervention! The bucks can really grow old here! There are very good chances for very strong boars. Wild boars are usually taken during stand hunts at baiting sites – but sometimes there are also chances to shoot boars during the roe buck stalking hunts. During roe buck hunting, it is also quite possible to spot bears, but encounters with wolves during stalking are very rare. Hunters are accommodated in a cozy guesthouse located in the center of the three hunting areas.
