Red Stag in the Bakony Mountains...

The Hunting Ground:

The 13,000-hectare state hunting ground is located in Western Hungary, at the northwestern edge of the Bakony Forest. The area is 70% forested, mainly with beech, oak, and Turkey oak. It is heavily hilly, and in addition to red deer and wild boar, mouflon, fallow deer, and roe deer are also present. Annually, approximately 250 red deer, 300 wild boars, 100 fallow deer, 30 mouflon, and 150 roe deer are harvested. The average trophy weights are 6-8 kg for red deer stags, 2.5 kg for fallow deer stags, 70-80 cm for mouflon rams, and 250-300 grams for roe bucks.

Accommodation is provided in a very beautiful Class I hunting lodge located within the hunting grounds. The lodge has two single rooms and eight double rooms, each with a bathroom and WC.
